Take a look and get inspired with these ashtoning dining rooms that will make your home simply wonderful.

THE DINING ROOMS

The interior design of a dining room has to be capable of combining functionality with aesthetics. Take into consideration your decor, your lifestyle and how frequently you will use the space when you're planning a layout. The harmonious synthesis between innovation and tradition meets here in an exclusive and sophisticated gathering of the classic and modern design in dark tones.

Inspired by the modern classic color palette.

Inspired by the modern classic color palette, this project is filled with browns, beiges, blacks, whites and greys. It is a minimalist ambience, with techniques that add complexity and diversity to space featuring the minimum amount of materials being used iconic furniture items and quiet colors. A project inspired by the interior of the space, the concept was underpinned by the architecture of the room itself. This room is part of combination of iconic styles, without being predictable and always remaining very raw and minimalistic, with Bonsai Dining Table by Boca do Lobo and Guggenheim Chandelier by Luxxu.

Notice how the bright color and clear table
allow visual airiness.”

Traditional dining rooms can be generously proportioned whereas smaller-scale furnishings in modern designs will suit contemporary tastes well. Open plans are still trending, and many, whether urban or suburban, integrate dining spaces into contiguous living. Be generous with circulation clearances in open plan interiors. Be inspired with this broad dining room by Brabbu with Aurum suspension lamp, Koi II dining table, Zulu dining chairs and Warao rug, all from this brand.

“Use marble to give a classic touch to your dining room décor while still staying modern.”

A decorative lighting piece really sets the tone of the entire dining room, as you can understand, and so it has a greater aesthetic importance than in the kitchen, where in contrast, you will need more practical and brighter lighting. You can also use marble to give a classic touch to your dining room décor while still staying modern.

It is great for table tops with its qualities and texture. The Waterfall chandelier is from Luxxu and Bourbon dining chairs by Brabbu.

Don't forget to work the walls.

We always want our family and friends to be happy in the dining room with more than just our excellent food and company. Fully upholstered dining chairs look incredibly comfortable. Gently molded seats and rounded backs for lumbar support ensure guests will enjoy their stay.

Don't forget to work the walls around the dining table as well. Cabinets, consoles, mirrors, artworks, benches, shelves... all can be very useful additions to a space while, at the same time, make it feel more welcoming and proportionate.

This dining room by Covet House is composed by Trump Suspension Lamp by Luxxu and Heritage Dining Table by Boca do Lobo.
