

Bathroom Trends 2019 – Like any other part of the home, the bathrooms are sensitive towards fashion and design trends. It's just that the novelties there are slower to come and more carefully considered because the investments in bathroom redecoration are more substantial and need an excellent thought-true. Before renovating your bathroom, consider these 2019 bathroom trends Maison Valentina has gathered especially for you!

Compact Living:

One of the most significant questions in front of designers today is how to accommodate small-scale living without compromising luxury and style? The unprecedented increase in urbanization in the world and the limitations in housing impose the question and offer intriguing creative possibilities.

Wood:

Wood replaces the cold ceramics and wooden panels that radiate from wall to ceiling create a unique expression for the clean, modern design.

Earth Tonalities:

When researching and exploring the trends in color for bathroom design, we must note that the color palette choice is not separate from the color selection for the rest of the home's design and very often it is an essential part of the whole concept for the home's decor. So which are the trendy colors when it comes to bathroom design?

The retraction of the millennial pink from the hot design scene is affecting and decreasing the usage of copper and other pink shades and the rise of the earth tonalities – beige and blond, forest green and ash charcoals. It is not like the copper will disappear entirely from the trendy design details, but we observe stronger preferences towards brass, black and white metals instead.

Vintage Wins for Washroom Decor:

A vintage design seems to be all the hype right now, even in bathroom decor. Vintage mirrors or unique light fixtures – that you can find at garage sales or thrift shops – can certainly bring an interesting vibe to your private haven. You can also re-purpose an old dresser into a vanity. The entire look can be brought together with patterned ceramic tiles, or even by making gold-toned plumbing visible. If vintage is your thing, this bathroom trend is definitely timeless.

Simple Storage:

Bathroom cabinets tend to accumulate a great number of unused products. Rather than adding storage to your washroom, why not simply keep storage space you truly need?

Get rid of all that storage and keep only the necessities. Perfumes and creams may suffer because of the humidity in the room, so be sure they are stored in an enclosed cabinet.
