An Andalusian dancer with a large hat,
A cabinet Bonheur du jour with changing moods,
A bird flying over a scorched earth,
A Taillis sculpted changes in an abstract movement,
Large brushstrokes in China ink create a mural setting.
Everything is movement, everything is object, unique, poetic and raw.

For over twenty years, Thierry Laudren has been exploring the frontiers between the object and the sculpture. Twice a year, the artist creates and realizes a collection of art pieces for the Maison&Objet exhibition. The sculptures form a set imagined for a defined space. They become a global art work, which then disperse in French, English, American, Chinese and even Indian interiors.
