EMERALD green

Green will be everywhere in 2019 but will be used especially in upholstery. We will be seeing sofas and chairs in all shades from emerald green to more mixed tones. Emerald is a great color that holds a sultry vibe to it. It's timeless in every respect and works very well with natural elements and neutral tones.

MIXING Metals

This trend is gaining popularity but there are some rules to follow to pull it off. You should focus on only one metal to take a dominant role. Contemporary designs should focus on using stainless steels, while for a modern space should opt for chrome fixtures or an on-trend polished copper. For more classic style, gold is a natural choice.

MODERN DESIGN & LIVING

Velvet was once considered to be old-fashioned but nowadays it's seen as trendy, luxurious and very comfortable. Velvet, as well as other rich fabrics such as silks, will be more on the spotlight than they've been in the past years. And even though it's a fabric that provides a sense of warmth and depth, perfect for the cold seasons, it's also perfect for Spring and Summer, especially in lighter and hearty tones.

MATTE Black

Matte Black is a popular finish not only in kitchens and bathrooms. It is naturally modern but it works well as a complementary finish too. Black is a classic color that never goes out of style so, chances are matte black fixtures are ones that won't tire so quickly.

Matte black is a very popular finish, not only in the fashion and car world but also in interior design. Black is a classic that never goes out of style, but nevertheless modern and trendy! Black furniture is a classic choice that doesn't tire as much as bright coloured pieces. When paired with gold magic happens and the most glamorous interiors are born.

This trend is gaining more and more popularity. To pull it off there a few guidelines to follow, for example the focus should be in one metal, such as gold. Especially when decorating a classic interior gold brings a sense of putting it all together without much effort. Mixed with silver creates a modern space very on trend and with a new look for Spring and Summer!
