

"Voilà ma Maison", designer and manufacturer of lamps for children since 2001, reinvents its universe with its new collection "Dot".
In her own studio, craftsman Anne Besson imagines her creations and hand makes them entirely.

"Dot"

Round lamps like colour dots: ceiling lights, wall fixtures, lamps to set anywhere or hang.

The new collection has a refined simplicity which brings a delightful touch of light in the kid's rooms.

Wandering lamps hang on the wall or sit freely on furniture. Through their delicately patterned diffusers, ceiling lamps create a soft and cosy atmosphere.

The "Dot" collection invites itself from the children's room to the living-room with a mix of styles, for a bright decoration with bohemian overtones, with chic and delicate accents or as soft and sweet as candy.

Each "Dot" is personalized according to wish: colour-contrasting or harmonized rims, electric cords in subtle shades, solid, floral or japanese-patterned fabrics, pastel powdery hues, timeless whites, natural beiges or chic golds, poetic clouds and tangy Bambis.

The history

Anne is originally from Grenoble. She spends a few years in Paris giving free course to her creativity: she works in different fields such as decoration, graphic art and photography.

She then opens her own decoration store for children in Lyon. In 2000, she conceives her first lamps, with the idea of proposing a stylish alternative to the often dull offer of the time. Graphic and sleek, their success is immediate.

In 200, her first collection is presented to professionals at the "Maison et Objet" salon, where it is favoured from the outset by many French and foreign retailers.

Over the years, the collections of "Voilà ma maison!" evolve and grow, maintaining a sober and delicate spirit, both fashionable and timeless.
