to an artefact

A slight curve in the corners of traditional Korean roof blocks the rain yet lets the sunlight. The edges of al's ceramic cups are finished with a gentle curve that blocks the spill and lets a mouthful of water flow. al gives shape to edges and corners of a product with sensitive consideration for the users. al's gesture reflects the wisdom of Korean culture that found beauty in making harmony with nature.

al_Ceramic Atelier in Icheon, South Korea

In al's Artlines, we reshape boundaries between art and everyday life through a practical ceramic collection that embraces a unique perspective of an artist. The new collection depicts the color of four seasons in Korea through the lens of the artist, Line and Segment Studio. By curating combinations of colors of your own, you are invited to explore a moment in a spectrum of four seasons. Through collaboration, the unglazed surface of ceramics becomes a meeting ground for the users and artist to communicate in everyday life.
