

BUNACO

In Aomori Prefecture is the primeval beech forest of Shirakami, registered as a World Natural Heritage Site, where you can find the largest number of virgin beech trees in Japan.

To utilize them, beech wood is used to produce tableware, lamps, and audio speakers using the technique called Bunaco.

Bunaco is a method where thin slices of beech wood are wound like a coil and molded into products that boast unique beauty and warmth.

【 BUNACO WORKSHOP 】

Let's make a BUNACO unique in the world!!

Event Outline

Date and time : January 17th (Friday) ~ 19th (Sunday), from 10:00 am, each day

Location : AOMORI PREFECTURAL GOUVERNEMENT booth (Hall 5A R63)

Free of charge (approximately 100 people each day, numbered tickets distributed on a first-come-first-served basis)

Bunaco Co.,Ltd

HALL 5A / R63

www.bunaco.co.jp