ames presents new designs by Sebastian Herkner

September 2020

Ames extends the popular cielo collection of chairs, sun loungers and lounge chairs by Sebastian Herkner with a new bistro table and foot stool.

The elegant bistro table stands on four slim legs made from powder-coated tubular steel which forms the base supporting the round table top that comes in metal or marble. The woven detailing covering the pillar align the piece with the rest of the collection.

The table is for indoor and outdoor use. Thanks to its compact footprint, it's ideal for seating corners on balconies or restaurant seating areas as it allows for efficient space use.

The small foot stool complements the existing Cielo lounge chairs. The webbing is made from recycled plastic wires which are attached by hand to the metal frame. The pattern is called Momposino and is popular in the coastal regions bordering the Caribbean sea. Like all other Cielo pieces, the latest additions are made in family-owned workshops in Colombia.

It's the second time this year that ames is launching new designs by Sebastian Herkner. In April, the brand extended the caribe chic baskets with new variations in dark colours, and presented new patterns of the hand-sewn Nido cushions as well as the striped Par Raya rugs and the colourful Mochila cotton bags.

About ames

Discovering the beauty of Colombia - that's the mission ames set out to create a unique collection of furniture, textiles and accessories that are distributed globally. Founded in 2006 by Ana Maria Calderón Kayser in Koblenz, Germany, the brand collaborates with renown designers including Sebastian Herkner and Pauline Deltour to create products full of life and personality that capture the colours and materials of Colombia's remarkable landscapes. All products are produced in small, family-owned workshops that use traditional methods and are almost exclusively made from natural materials. Ames values sustainable production methods, fair wages and the promotion of local craftsmanship to help keeping the traditions and skills of the artesanos alive for future generations.
