Spring/Summer

2021

There's no place like home.

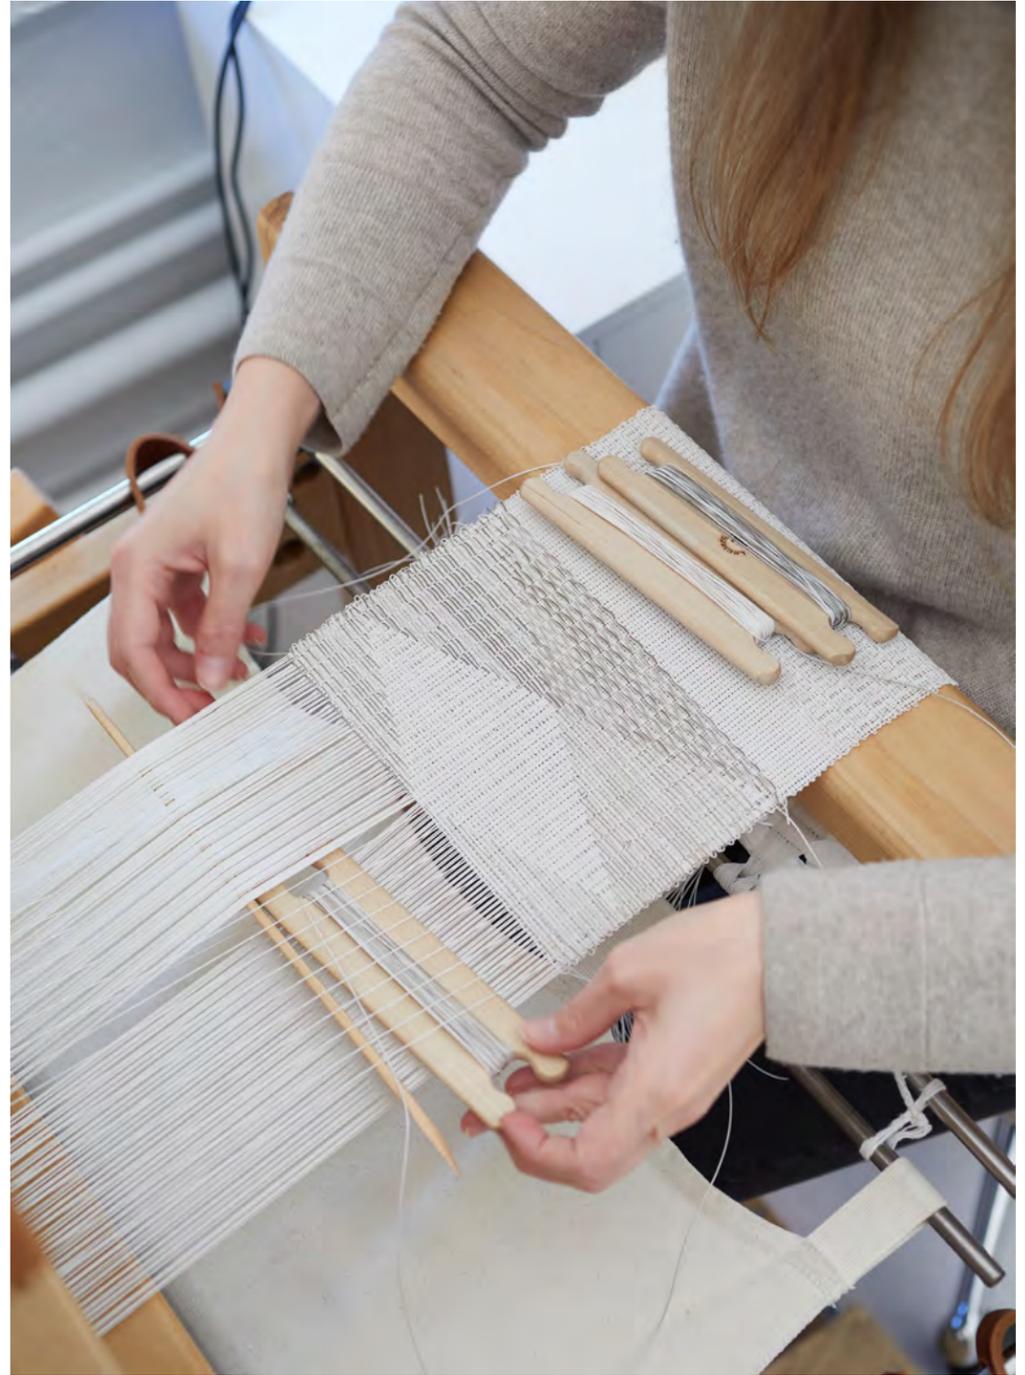

Conceived, developed, and refined during a tumultuous year, our Spring/Summer 2021 collection is a testament to the creative problem-solving at the heart of great design. The pandemic separated us from our New York studio and from one another, and so, we adapted.

Creative director Sandy Chilewich and our design team found ways to bring their work home, clearing personal spaces for sketches, samples, and even, for our master weaver, a tabletop loom. They collaborated virtually to bring new designs and colors to life, working closely with our weaving partners in Alabama. In photographs captured at Sandy Chilewich's Manhattan apartment, the new collection comes full circle.
