novelties for retailers and commerce

Product focus: Tray

Tray: Pulse

novelties

The fine ribbed pattern of the tray from the "Pulse" collection is created by applying ring structures to the still unfired porcelain with shellac. The remaining areas are then washed out by hand. The shellac layer glows during the firing process. What remains is a delicate white-in-white pattern that can also be felt by hand.

Tray: Blue Silent

novelties

The glazes that cover the surfaces of the deep blue, black or olive coloured trays are also a Hering Berlin development, for which Stefanie Hering experimented for months with specialised craftsmen: they are poured by hand, run a little differently on each object and also accumulate on the porcelain surface in ever varying opaque and transparent layers.

Tray: Silent Brass

novelties

This iridescent effect, which emphasises the intensity of the colours, is particularly effective on the large surface of the trays from the "Blue Silent", "Obsidian" and "Silent Brass" collections.

Tray: Obsidian

novelties

They are also an excellent element of an unpretentious but at the same time unusual and eye-catching table decoration. "You can be opulent at the table - with the food, but also with the tableware and décor," says Stefanie Hering. That's why, for the festive table, she recommends "creating an architecture at the table and playing with different heights, sizes and shapes of vessels and objects."

Tray: Illusion

novelties

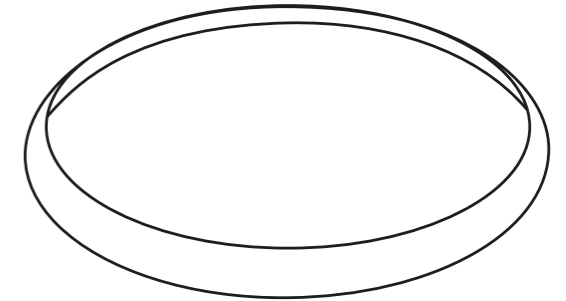

The TRAYS by Stefanie Hering are not only the result of an intensive creative process, they also formulate an invitation to everyone to become creative themselves and to experiment with twigs, flowers, fruits or candles on this wonderful basis and to create ever new decorative arrangements.

Letter Cups

Letter Cups

novelties

The handcrafted tumblers each bear a letter from A to Z or a number in rich cobalt or a special character in gold in a select modern typography (FF Meta Plus Boiled Regular) that charmingly plays around the elegant design.

Letter Cups

novelties

A single vessel, for example, is a beautiful gift for a name mug with initial. But you can also individually mix two or more mugs with different characters to create small messages - from My Love, LOVE and You & Me to Let Love Bloom... -, a year or a date.

New Glaze: Emerald

novelties

New Glaze: Emerald

novelties

„Emerald“ is the next release in Stefanie Herings spectrum of glazes. Manually poured, this vivid high fire glaze shimmers from juicy leave green to an intensively deep emerald colour.

New Glaze: Emerald

novelties

In interplay with Hering Berlins various decors „Emerald“ emerges as a very versatile team player: The associations span from pinewood in combination with „Piquer“, spring vibes with „Palmhose X“, up to post-bauhaus modernism with „Soda“, or noble elegance with our rare metals „Polite Silver“ and „Polite Gold“. For our advanced lovers we recommend the green trio „Emerald“ nuanced with „Illusion“ and „Silent Brass“.

Follow up: Illusion

novelties

The interplay of light and shadow is already the theme of Stefanie Hering's celebrated "Cielo" Collection: holes are made in the fragile porcelain with a drill and knife; through these holes the light draws patterns on the surfaces below. "Illusion" takes up this motif, but this time in the form of white "points of light" dancing across a background of an elegant, iridescent grey-green tone.

Follow up: Illusion

novelties

The hand-made "Illusion" objects are the perfect complement to the service elements of "Cielo", but can also be combined excellently with other Hering Berlin collections, for example with "Silent Brass", "Polite Gold" or "Velvet", according to the "Mix & Match" principle.

The pomegranate once promised fertility and the blessing of children on Chinese porcelain, which made the long journey to Europe on merchant ships in the 17th century. Western connoisseurs valued the fruit, which was usually painted in blue, more for its refined aesthetics. It also characterises the Hering Berlin-Collection Granat, on which the shape was drawn in cobalt, sometimes as a whole, sometimes fragmented. The charming puzzle game extends over a multitude of shape variations and can be complemented particularly well with other décors that play into the blue, such as Silent Iron or Blue Silent. As the decor is dishwasher- and microwave-safe, it can also be used in the catering trade without any problems.
