

HOME OFFICE: WORKING FROM HOME NEVER FELT SO GOOD

The new COVID-19 outbreak has led to multiple changes in the world we used to know. For many people, remote work is a new reality, so the challenge is to create spaces comfortable enough to keep the same focus and productivity as in the office.

It is important to create a formal space within the informal boundaries of the home. For that reason, BRABBU and Rug'Society are united to show a wide range of products and ideas for the perfect home office, as a direct reflection of people's personal style, passions, and aspirations.

Working from home can be appealing, providing opportunities for real comfort and competence. The image on the right mirrors what a home office should look like: not too casual and separated from the rest of the house. Calla Table Light, with Estremoz Marble base, contrasts perfectly with the grey OKA Chair.

A neutral palette is an exceptional choice for a timeless office design, looking in harmony with a large and aesthetically appealing desk like BARAKA, that is a fierce choice for any environment.

The home office needs to stimulate people's creativity and efficiency. Since light is always one of the most relevant elements, HORUS Suspension Light will be the ideal option for a space like this, by adding a modern reference and an elegant feeling to the office. On the other hand, a large rug, like IVO, can be the key to bring comfort to this space, contrasting with the other furniture at the same time, like DAVIS and IBIS Armchairs.
