- LUXURY LIGHTING TRENDS FOR 2022 -

THE ULTIMATE GUIDE TO CHOOSE THE RIGHT LIGHTING DESIGN

It's easy to find specific trends when we talk about the high-fashion world of furniture design since it's all based on the research of different colors, patterns, shapes and textures, but when we think about interior lighting the story is a lot different. One thing is clear, the ideas proposed by designers for the selection of fashionable in 2022 lighting options are acceptable for any budget and design style.

"Lighting is something timeless that is made to last longer in any design project, unlike other decorative objects. The same lighting piece, whether it is a unique suspension design or a simple wall lamp, can fit different project styles, from contemporary to luxury modern. The secret is choosing the right finish and shape that complements the roots of the space.", explained DelightFULL's head designer, Sara Magno.

Ranging from clusters of bare bulbs in dynamic arrangements, elegant sculptural shapes and styles, and vibrantly colored shades, these are just some of the lighting trends that are going to revolutionize the lighting world in 2022. We had the chance to discuss with DelightFULL's head designer about the ultimate trends in the lighting world and what can we expect from the famous mid-century modern icon.

How would you define the trend word in the lighting industry?

Unlike the world of furniture or decorative accessories, sometimes it is difficult to define the ultimate lighting trends since it's so much more than the right color choice or finish. Lighting is a key component in any room's design, influencing how it looks, feels, and functions throughout the day. And the world's current situation came to reinforce the importance of choosing the right lighting piece for our homes since we spend much more time inside than before. Honestly, choosing the right floor lamp or suspension piece can be a hard choice, since the ideal is to look for something timeless and unique, that doesn't go out of style in the next few years.

Are there different trends for different types of projects? Or can the same shapes we use at home be applied in commercial space?

Many people think that different project types need for specific lighting products but actually the same lighting design can look incredible in a luxury hotel or a modern house design. The secret is on how this unique piece is incorporated throughout the space, for example commercial projects have more repetitive lighting patterns, stronger colors and materials; while in home spaces we can go quiet and unnoticed lighting or play with the trend chandeliers and have a statement lighting design as an art piece in the decor.

Which projects would you say that best represent you and the versatility of your products?

As one of the leading brands in the modern lighting industry, we provide unique pieces for all types of projects, with different color palettes and styles. Our most recent residential design called "Million Dollar Apartment Project in NYC", is the first original house of our virtual project series.

Here we can see a soothing side of the mid-century modern style, where simplicity and neutral colors create the perfect ambiance to relax. Here the lighting (such as the Coltrane suspension pieces) goes unnoticed, almost camouflaged in the interior design so that it doesn't overshadow the rest of the décor. On the other hand, another of our most famous projects is a restaurant design that recalls the heady-glamour of the modern era. The pattern created with the multiple Coltrane suspension and wall pieces create a good timeless vibe and give dynamism to the space.

Every season comes with different color options, and we know that buyers usually choose the color palettes of their design according to these color trends. Would you say that in lighting, the color choice of the lamp can influence the purchase decision of the client?

The lighting piece is an element selected at the very beginning of the project whether residential or commercial which means that the light it projects will be the support for the construction of the whole environment. These unique products are timeless pieces selected specifically for each area of the house and let's be honest, no one wants to change the wall beds all the time or the chandelier with 20Kg of the house entrance (laughs). The finishes and the temperature of the light should be carefully selected because we will live with it for a long time before we decide to renew it, which makes the piece timeless whatever the choice the clients decide to make.

What are the top trends you think are going to revolutionize the lighting world in 2022?

From our perspective, the lighting aficionados are moving towards unique pieces that are both stylish and functional, but can also bring a unique personality to their space... A fact that DelightFULL is already famous for since the storytelling of our pieces is as important as our values of design excellence and craftsmanship culture. But is quite clear that our clients are leaning towards simple shapes and art-like pieces that turn out to be the statement of the entire interior design, no matter the color or size. So, If I could enhance the upcoming lighting trends for 2022 it is definitely the simplicity of forms, chandeliers in the form of art objects, round shapes, brass as the popular material, and dimmable fixtures.
