

Mifuko

Basket SS22 Collection

Work of hands and hearts

Mifuko's mission is to bring joy to our customers while improving the welfare of women in rural areas of Kenya. We are guided by our core values in everything we do: unique, joyful and social responsibility. Just as each of our artisans is unique so are the products they make. We hope you agree that the uniqueness also shows in our designs!

Certified Member of WTFO

Mifuko is a proud member of the World Trade Fair Organization (WTFO), a global community of social enterprises that fully practice Fair Trade. To be a member, an enterprise or organisation must demonstrate they put people and planet first in everything they do.

The Mifuko Basket Collection

Mifuko is proud to support women's empowerment and the preservation traditional handicraft techniques by offering a collection of handmade baskets by artisans in Kenya, Tanzania and Ghana.

Kiondo Collection

A fusion of Nordic design and traditional Kenyan handicraft, our beautiful Kiondo Collection offers a wide range of baskets in terms of colour, style and materials. These baskets range in sizes from XS to XXL, are made from different materials including all sisal with leather handles, a specially developed paper collection with leather or paper handles, as well as the highly durable and versatile combination of sisal and plastic. With short or long handles, or without, these baskets have many uses.

Iringa Baskets

Our new Iringa collection has Finnish design elements added to the traditional basket weaving technique in the village of Iringa in Tanzania. Made from natural milulu grass and produced by talented weavers, these baskets are both aesthetically pleasing and functional.

Mkeka Basket

Our unique, hand-woven Mkeka baskets are made by artisans in the tree-covered hills of southern Kenya. The artisans gather the fallen palm leaves from Mkeka, a type of palm tree native to Kenya, and craft them into beautiful, sophisticated baskets. The tight weave makes the baskets strong and durable, yet soft and pliable. Mifuko has added vegetable-tanned leather straps to the traditionally designed baskets.

Bolga Baskets

Artisans in Ghana weave beautiful baskets from elephant grass, a natural fiber found in the region. Designed with a Nordic twist, these durable baskets are produced by talented weavers and are both aesthetically pleasing and functional. The medium size baskets with short handles can be used as shopping baskets or to store anything from toys to newspapers and magazines. The XS size basket with a loop has many uses! These baskets can be rinsed clean with cool water and reshaped as needed.

Meet our artisan Mueni

My name is Mueni Waita, I have 6 children and am the chairperson of the Kuanziu self-help group.

To get to know her, we asked Mueni some questions:

If you were a colour, what colour would it be and why?

-I prefer colour green because it is the colour of healthy plants and it shows life and growth. It is a show of hope.

Who inspires you?

-I'm inspired by Minna and Mari because of their big hearts and work to empower families through the development of women's groups. They are focused and visionary in keeping the basket weaving tradition alive and growing.

How did you learn about the Mifuko project?

-I was first introduced to Mifuko activities in 2009 by a relative who was a member of one of the pioneer groups. I used to weave baskets for that group, since then I have joined, and later became chairperson, of my current group.

How does it make you feel to be a part of this group of women?

-It pleases me to be a member of the women's group, in part because I get income from making baskets but also because we run other programmes that are aimed at improving the welfare of women.

Who taught you basket weaving and how did you learn it?

-I learnt basket weaving in my early years as a girl. I was trained by my mother who was making baskets for cultural purposes and for the local market.

What is it about the work you enjoy most?

-I enjoy working with my hands. Weaving is enjoyable because I do it during my free time, apart from my normal work.

Our Mission

Mifuko's mission is to bring joy to our customers while improving the welfare of communities in rural Africa. We follow Fair Trade practices and continue to show how a company committed to Fair Trade principles can be ethically, socially and financially successful.

Mifuko products promote sustainable home décor and fashion, and they contribute to the well-being of the artisans, their families and the greater community by empowering women and preserving traditional African craftsmanship.

We are guided by our core values of uniqueness, joy and responsibility. These values are reflected in every aspect of our business and in the work the artisans do for Mifuko and for their communities.

Our mission and values are more than mere words. They are practical guidance for the choices and actions we take day to day. We have been radically sustainable from the beginning, striving for sustainability in everything we do.

Our sustainability report touches on all three facets of sustainability: economic, social and environmental. We approach sustainability from a wide perspective, which we believe is fundamental to address the health of a global society and planet earth.

Materials

Paper

Paper is a beautiful eco-friendly material as it can be fully recycled at the end of its lifecycle. The material is unbleached, light and durable – the special technique was developed with a factory in Kenya, resulting in a fully sustainable and highly durable product.

Sisal

Sisal plants grow in the dry soil of Kenya where no chemical fertilizers are used. It is durable, anti-static and takes dyeing better than other natural materials so it can be used to create different colours of baskets and bags. Sisal is a soft and flexible material allowing the baskets and bags to be formed into the shape you like.

Palm leaves

The artisans gather the fallen palm leaves from the native Kenyan Mkeka palm trees and craft them into beautifully sophisticated baskets. The tight weave makes the baskets strong and durable, yet soft and pliable, making this natural material ideal for weaving larger baskets.

Milulu grass

Grown along riverbanks in Tanzania, milulu grass is dried and naturally dyed before being woven into beautiful, highly durable baskets.

Elephant Grass

Elephant grass, found in the north of Ghana, is both durable and flexible. The baskets can be easily reshaped by moistening them with water.

Recycled and upcycled plastic

We continuously work towards more sustainable material choices and use recycled plastic whenever possible. Plastic is used due to its durability and predictable quality. These baskets are easy to clean and can take water, making them versatile and very suitable for use outdoors. Additionally, the plastic meets food grade standards, so the products are safe to use when in contact with food.

Leather

We use locally sourced leather for the handles on our bags and baskets. The hides are vegetable-tanned, using organic material and natural tannins derived from bark, leaves and branches of trees and plants. The leather is cut and stitched to the baskets using traditional techniques. A variation in colour is natural as it depends on where and how the cow has been bred.

Let us introduce you to Joyce, one of Mifuko's talented artisans. She is the breadwinner for her family and starts her day early by preparing breakfast for her family and cleaning her home. She then goes out to find sisal to weave ropes to be sold in the local market. She also weaves baskets in the Faith Women's group in which she has been a member since 2013. For Joyce, her family and her job are the most important things in her life. In the future, she wants to buy a water tank in order to start farming vegetables and selling them in addition to rope at the market. Joyce sings in her local church choir.
