MAYA LAMP

PRESS RELEASE

NEW: MAYA LAMP

.....

Vincent Sheppard launches a durable outdoor lamp which functions on solar energy and is cleverly made of repurposed teak slats. Meet Maya.

As consciously made furniture is one of the brand's core values, Vincent Sheppard decided to design a lantern which would be durable both in terms of design as power use. The Maya lamp is made of repurposed teak slats and comes with a solar or mains powered LED lighting unit.

"The natural slats are expertly handcrafted out of our own teak off-cuts. Instead of letting those high-quality pieces of wood go to waste, we integrated them in Maya's design thus giving them a second life, a second time to shine" explains CEO of Vincent Sheppard, Coralie Claeys.

The solid teak slats embrace the lighting module and contrast beautifully with the black powder coated frame. Through the gaps in the wooden shell, Maya will cast a warmly welcoming glow, creating a dreamy ambience in the blink of an eye.

Indoors, outdoors, or in between, the atmospheric lamp will make the evenings a bit longer, a bit cosier and a bit more durable.

The Maya lamp comes in two sizes and will be in stores as from september 2022.
