KLIMCHI's first appearance at Maison et Objet, introducing brand new collections

Kamenicky Senov, 1st September 2022

Exciting premiere of the youthful designer brand. Interior enthusiasts and handmade glass lovers will have a unique chance to see KLIMCHI's breathtaking collections at the September edition of Maison&Objet. At the fair, the Czech glassblowing studio will introduce four new collections designed by its Creative Director Frantisek Jungvirt.

Minimalistic MONOCHROME EDIT vases, stunning yet bold ROYAL MARIKA bowls together with two tableware lines – LINEA and CRUST. Breathtaking pieces of contemporary glass art that will be featured in KLIMCHI's first-ever exhibition in Paris.

Intended for long stem flowers and ornate grasses, Monochrome Edit collection seeks the inspiration amid the mountains of Bohemia. Earthy tones of Noire, Blanc and Olive vase are softened with sandblasted glass. 'Dramatic height and long sweeping curves mimicking the soaring silhouette of the poplar tree marks the Monochrome vase as unique amongst our collections,' thinks the KLIMCHI designer and rising star of the contemporary glass art Frantisek Jungvirt.

The range of Royal Marika bowls is delicately coloured in soft shades of light green, rosaline and underlay blue. Gentle ripples radiate from the solid base, capturing and reflecting light, elevating the simple bowl to the level of glass art for the dining table. The muse for Jungvirt were undulating curves of coastal waves carved into glistening stretches of sand. Bowls come in three sizes, each of them is a centerpiece worthy of the most discerning table stylists.

The exhibition will also debut Linea – a collection whose mission is to transform everyday dining into a celebration of contemporary minimalism – and Crust, impeccable choice for the hard liquor connoisseurs.

KLIMCHI and their brand new collections will be on display at Maison et Objet 8th – 12th September, Hall 3, Stand E120-F119.
