Press Release: Introducing Corston

Corston Architectural Detail launches in the EU

Corston Architectural Detail – Wiltshire-based designers and makers of solid brass switches, sockets, hardware, and lighting – are excited to announce that they are expanding their brand in Europe.

With lighting and hardware (excluding door handles) already launched in Europe, Corston will be showcasing a full range of their new, EU-compatible switches and sockets at Maison&Objet in January 23.

Their French website will also be fully shoppable in time for the fair, so customers in both France and Belgium will be able to order online.

Corston's brand is built around making renovations easier, and things are no different in Europe. Delivery of in stock items is fast (in a matter of days, rather than the usual weeks-long lead times) and Delivered Duties Paid, so customers won't need to worry about paying taxes or sorting customs documents.

David Gray, co-founder, and product director, says: ‘We have had such enormous success in the UK with products that are brilliant quality, good value for money, and available quickly. And our research showed there was not really anyone else doing that in Europe.

‘We spent 18 months designing products specifically for these countries. Our switches and sockets are made from solid brass which allows us to create a sleek, minimal, flush-fit design that is unlike anything else we have seen. We have completely reengineered our British range, from aesthetic details through to the fundamentals like creating back plates that allow square switches and sockets to be mounted in round European back boxes.

‘We have also tried to do the entire system, from box to switch, so we can look after our customers from start to finish. So, we have developed back boxes made from 100% recycled post-consumer plastic, as well as render trims that allow you to get a perfect finish around the socket.’

Based in Wiltshire, England, Corston Architectural are a company of designers and engineers dedicated to making renovations easier with quality products that are affordable and timeless. Founded in 2019, the team are obsessive about detail and think that the switches, sockets, hardware, and lighting that you use every day are important and should be done right and look beautiful.

Everything Corston designs goes together effortlessly – from the understated aesthetic that each design shares, to the three finishes (Antique Brass, Bronze, and Polished Nickel) that are available on all the solid brass products in the range. Each product is made for homes of all kinds, inside and out.

Corston will be launching their French website and EU switches and sockets at Maison&Objet in Paris from 19th–23rd January 2023. Find them in Hall 7 at Stand E178. Their Belgian website (in French and Dutch) is live now at corston.be. To find out more, or to request quotes and images, please get in touch with our team press@corston.com.
