Lucie de Moyencourt

Lucie de Moyencourt, please introduce yourself.

Hello I am a Franco South African artist, illustrator, painter and ceramicist working in Cape Town. My dad is an antiques dealer and collector here, and my mom has a big dance school so I have been lucky to have grown up surrounded by magic and beauty. I have a studio in Cape Town.

Where does your passion for illustrations come from?

My work is inspired by the city I live in, we live amongst mountains, beaches and the city. I have always loved collecting shells by the beach, and my ceramic practice comes from this.

Can you describe your work process?

Haha, my process is always to try and stop thinking about it. Distraction is the best! I focus on action and doing things and later editing and refining. I also love to work in the evenings when the house is quiet.

What is your favourite activity besides working on your label? My favourite activity above working on my shells is spending time with my kids. The shells are a great refuge FROM the kids when I need a moment of peace and quiet, this is my sanctuary! I also love observing through sketching in my sketchbooks that I carry around with me always.

What made you decide to start a collaboration with &k amsterdam? It was the people! I was contacted by &k and they were very good and clear at explaining the proposed collaboration. It made me want to work with them. I am a small studio in Cape Town, and I love being able to stretch out and reach more people with my beloved Shellegance!

What do you think makes the connection between &k amsterdam and your own style?

I love the playful and colourful pieces that &k creates. I think their style works well in contemporary as well as older homes. It's this versatility, timelessness and playfulness that I like. I very much hope you will enjoy the collection!
