

Fusion metal-effect tiles by Casalgrande Padana for industrial chic spaces

Casalgrande Padana is proud to present Fusion, the new porcelain stoneware tile collection inspired by the expressive power of oxidised metal.

The new Fusion collection results from Casalgrande Padana's aesthetic research and technological innovation. It replicates the effects of metal oxidation, chrome plating, and other processes, creating stunning colours and finishes.

Fusion comes in six colours (Black, Copper, Graphite, Green, Grey, and White), with a natural finish, and in various formats and thicknesses. The 60x60 cm, 60x120 cm, and 120x120 cm formats are 9 mm thick, while the large 120x278 cm format is 6 mm thick. In addition to their sophisticated colours, Fusion tiles stand out for the typical shine of oxidised metal.

Iridescent accents, modern metal effects, and porcelain stoneware's outstanding technical features allow these tiles to be used on the floors and walls of any domestic space. They are also perfect for tiling furnishings, countertops, partition walls, and accent walls. Fusion tiles have a great visual impact. As a result, they are ideal for those who love a minimalist interior design style full of character. For example, they are perfect for modern open space living rooms and metropolitan or industrial chic lofts. These beautiful tiles feature pleasant tactile qualities and metal's aesthetic properties, making them ideal for contemporary projects in the contract furnishing, hospitality, hotel, and retail sectors.

Fusion tiles are long-lasting, non-absorbent, non-allergenic, fire-resistant, and antibacterial, thanks to the Bios Antibacterial® technology (available upon request). They also have excellent flexural strength and are easy to lay and clean. Whatever the latitude, these tiles withstand temperature fluctuations and never warp. Their exceptional mechanical strength maintains all these tiles' features unchanged over time.

Casalgrande Padana porcelain stoneware tiles are made solely with natural raw materials through a closed-cycle manufacturing process where sophisticated antipollution equipment allows all the components to be recycled and reused with substantially zero emissions or dispersions.

The new Fusion collection brings the charm of metal surfaces and chrome plating to your home, allowing you to create fascinating modern projects. This is the collection for you if you're aiming for a minimalist, metropolitan interior design style full of personality.
