

DECOBIRD LITTLE RINGED PLOVER

DecoBird Little Ringed Plover is a detailed depiction of the bird. Its sweet appearance and big, glass eyes add a charming touch to any room.

DecoBird Little Ringed Plover is a detailed depiction of the bird. Its sweet appearance and big, glass eyes add a charming touch to any room. It fits perfectly on a shelf, windowsill, or table, offering a delightful detail to brighten everyday life.

The little ringed plover (Charadrius dubius) is a thriving migratory bird with a wide geographical range in Europe and Asia. In winter, it inhabits tropical regions. However, breeding takes place further north within its range. It nests on mudflats, sand, and gravel areas near water – natural or artificial. The nest is a hollow in the ground lined with various materials, such as plants. An adult can reach 18 cm in length, and both sexes have the same markings.

Artisans handcraft these Swedish-designed wooden birds from sustainable materials like wood and water-based paint. As each bird is handmade, they possess slight variations, making each piece unique.

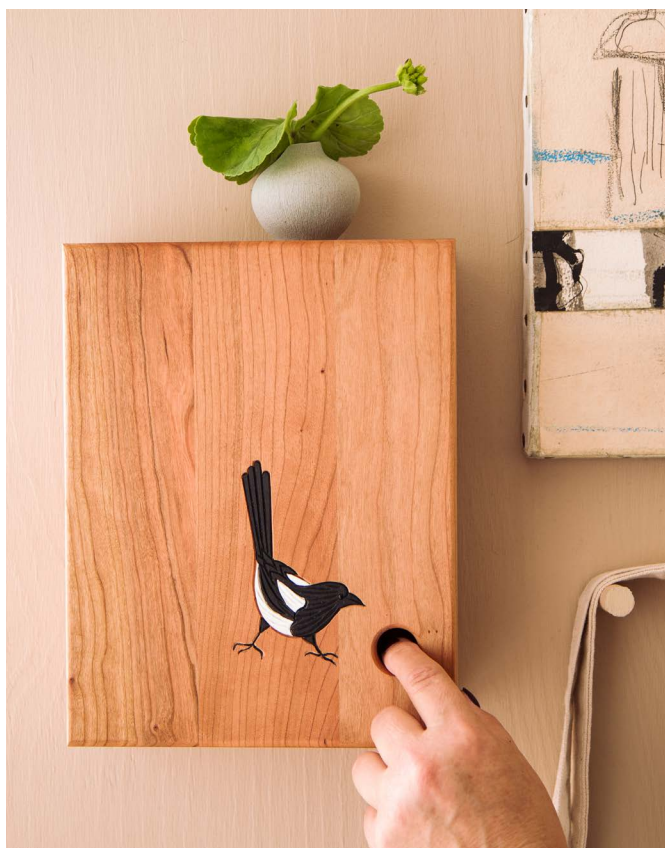

DECOBIRD EURASIAN WOODCOCK

DecoBird Eurasian Woodcock, with its rounded body and watchful eyes, adds a personal and natural element to bookshelves, home offices, or living rooms.

DecoBird Eurasian Woodcock, with its rounded body and watchful eyes, adds a personal and natural element to bookshelves, home offices, or living rooms.

The Eurasian woodcock (Scolopax rusticola) was first described taxonomically in 1758 in Systema Naturae by Carl von Linné. It is a long-billed, round, and robust migratory bird with large eyes set far back on its head and a wingspan of 56–60 cm. Woodcocks have a thriving global population and breed primarily in Russia and Fennoscandia. During courtship, the male woodcock flies along a specific route at dusk, known as “roding”. This circuit takes about 12 minutes and has been utilised in hunting.

KEY CABINET MAGPIE

Add a playful, natural touch to your hallway with a wooden key cabinet featuring a chip-carved bird.

This cherry wood cabinet has a nature-inspired design with some charming details. Instead of a handle, the door has a little hole through which a curious chip-carved figure admires the shiny keys. The bird is hand-painted using water-based paint.

KEY CABINET WOODPECKER

Keep your keys organised with this charming yet practical key cabinet featuring a hand-carved woodpecker.

This cherry wood cabinet has a nature-inspired design and a playful detail—a skilfully wood-carved handle in the shape of a bird. The bird is hand-painted using water-based paint.

ABOUT THE CABINETS

The cabinet has a traditional linseed oil finish that complements the brass on the hinges. Over time, the cherry wood matures, changing from a light tone to a warm reddish hue. The grain has beautiful variations, with darker accents formed by resin pockets.

Features:

- Magnets keep the cabinet securely closed and ensure the door opens and closes smoothly.
- A threshold inside the cabinet prevents anything from falling out.
- Seven pegs inside the cabinet neatly organise your keys into two rows.
- Cherry wood – the warm reddish tone boasts beautiful variations in the grain, and the colour matures with time.

KITCHEN ROLL HOLDER WREN

Decoration and practicality combine in this everyday item: a kitchen roll holder featuring a hand-carved wren that adds charm to your kitchen counter.

The skillfully hand-carved wren adorns the top of the solid wood kitchen roll holder, making it both a practical and decorative piece for the kitchen counter or dining table. It adds a delightful element to any home and interior style.

Features:

- Fits most kitchen roll sizes (two rods included: 23 cm and 32 cm)
- Perfect gift – comes in a simple gift box
- Easy to assemble – no tools required
- Low maintenance – wipe clean with a damp cloth
- Rubber feet on the base protect the wood from damp surfaces and ensure grip on various surfaces
- Solid wood with hand-carved details
- Hand-painted with water-based paint

HOOK ALPACA

Our wooden wall hooks, featuring hand-carved animals, are playful decorative pieces that suit any room in the house.

Our hand-carved hooks are both fun and functional, ideal for organising kitchens, bedrooms, or hallways. Thanks to the keyhole bracket on the back, you can easily install them wherever you like. The hook is made of bronze-coloured metal and can withstand a maximum load of 10 kg. Each hook comes with an informative booklet about the species it represents.

The alpaca comes from the Andes and lives in areas of Ecuador, northern Bolivia, northern Chile and southern Peru. It is a domesticated camelid whose origins can be traced back to the vicuna. The alpaca is bred for its fine wool and is kept in herds on high altitude grasslands.

It is a gregarious animal that should live with other alpacas to thrive. They communicate with humming sounds, and have a rich body language with different head and ear positions.

WOODEN SCULPTURE: RABBIT KIT

This baby rabbit is part of a group of intricately hand-carved wooden animals. It creates a playful atmosphere in any room, whether displayed alone or in a group.

The baby rabbit, also known as a rabbit kit, is beautifully hand-carved with great detail and sits watchfully curled up, observing its surroundings. You can place it on a shelf, a desk, or as part of your Easter table setting. It will bring joy to nature and animal lovers of all ages.

The European rabbit is a leporidae and its distinguishing features are the strong hind legs. It has two extra teeth behind the front teeth, differentiating it from other rodents. The large front teeth grow continuously. The rabbit builds a network of burrows, up to 45 metres long, where it spends the day sleeping and preening since they are most active in the morning and the evening. They live up to 10 years if they can avoid predators such as the fox or birds of prey.

KEYRING LADYBIRD

The Ladybird Keyring is a playful, practical item that helps you keep track of your keys while spreading cheer with its lifelike appearance.

The motif on the keyring is wood-carved with beautifully hand-painted details in water-based paint.

The ladybird (family Coccinellidae) is a small beetle with brightly coloured wing cases and a distinctive spot pattern. Its colour acts as a warning to predators that it is toxic and tastes bitter. It feeds on aphids and scale insects, making it a natural pest controller.

There are over 5,000 different ladybird species worldwide, and in Sweden, the seven-spotted ladybird is the most common. In many cultures, the ladybird is a symbol of good luck.