Puckator Returns to Maison & Objet with Exciting New Collections and Licences

Puckator, the well-established UK-based wholesale giftware specialist, is delighted to confirm its participation once again at Maison & Objet Paris this September. With over three decades of experience in the giftware and home décor industry, Puckator has earned a solid reputation across Europe for offering imaginative, trend-driven, and affordable products. Their extensive catalogue includes homeware, decorative accessories, toys, stationery, beauty items, and a wide variety of licensed ranges.

Visitors to Maison & Objet will discover fresh and playful additions to Puckator's best-selling collections. Among the highlights are the latest releases from their popular licensed ranges such as The Original Stormtrooper, Minecraft, Pusheen the Cat, Naruto, Paddington, and Aardman, among others. The Asterix range is also expanding with exciting new additions. This collection holds a special place within Puckator's portfolio; inspired by the beloved comic series that has captivated readers for generations, it features a wide array of charming and nostalgic products that resonate deeply with fans across Europe.

There will also be new arrivals this season, including products featuring the iconic Peanuts characters and the global virtual pop star Hatsune Miku, bringing even more international flair to the offering.

French retailers and buyers will also be introduced to several exclusive in-house collections designed by Puckator's creative team in Cornwall, UK. These include fun and imaginative ranges such as Adoramals, Game Over, and Foodiemals, each beloved for its originality and quirky charm.

Another highlight not to be missed is Puckator's award-winning travel collection, featuring the innovative Swapseazzz 2-in-1 cushions and the bestselling Relaxeazzz eye masks and cushions — winners of the Gift of the Year Awards. These practical yet stylish accessories continue to capture the attention of stockists across Europe.

Whether you are looking for on-trend lifestyle products, seasonal décor, or imaginative gifts that speak to today's consumer, Puckator offers a comprehensive and constantly evolving product range to suit every retail space.

Puckator warmly invites all Maison & Objet attendees to visit their stand this September and experience the latest collections in person. Their dedicated team will be on hand to offer insights, introduce new lines, and help buyers find the perfect additions to their stock.
