

Innovation, functionality and stylish design: our new Plano sunlounger

Essential lines, the utmost functionality and contemporary aesthetic appeal. At Milan Design Week 2025, we are presenting Plano, the new sunlounger in fiberglass resin intended for those looking for the ultimate in style and well-being. Its large surface area ensures superior comfort while its smart design optimises space without occupying extra ground space.

Innovative in all ways, Plano stands out due to two key elements. The first is the design of the seat, exploiting the full width of the frame to the profile of the legs, also rationalising the packaging. The second element is the patented articulated mechanism of the backrest, which allows smooth adjustment to achieve perfect flatness, making it more practical to use and easy to stack with its smart folding system.

Designed by Raffaello Galiotto, it comes in five elegant tone-on-tone versions and is fitted with a removable breathable canvas, designed to ensure strength and durability also in frequently used contexts. Its features include four-position adjustment for the backrest, non-slip feet and integrated castors, making it easy to move around.
