

MADE IN EU

The Belgian brand Fine2Dine is the first tableware brand to innovate with 0% emission production.

Fine2Dine has been known for years for its robust, sustainable, and creative collections that inspire chefs and hospitality entrepreneurs to present their tables in surprising new ways time and time again.

With the introduction of EcoMade, the brand is now going one step further: tableware that is produced entirely emission-free, locally, and without fossil fuels.

Thanks to a smart and efficient production process, Fine2Dine can guarantee consistent premium quality, combined with short delivery times and attractive prices. Sustainability is central to this: we work without waste, with respect for people and the planet.

With EcoMade, Fine2Dine is responding to the growing demand for tableware that is not only creative and functional, but also responsible. Each piece proudly bears the green F2D logo with EcoMade certification: the symbol of style, sustainability, and reliability.

EcoMade confirms Fine2Dine's commitment to creating innovative collections that not only inspire the hospitality industry today, but also prepare it for the future.

"We want to prove that design, quality, and sustainability go hand in hand," says Fine2Dine. "With EcoMade, we show that tomorrow's table can be not only stylish, but also future-conscious."

Tableware without ecological compromise.

With EcoMade, Fine2Dine takes sustainability to the next level—without making empty promises. Our production combines renewable energy, a zero-waste policy, and smart use of raw materials. The result? Natural porcelain with zero% absorption: extremely strong and easy to clean. This allows us to offer chefs and hospitality professionals our trusted two-year chip guarantee. In short: tableware that not only looks beautiful, but also continues to perform – day after day, service after service. And all at a fair price.

A comprehensive vision with a new dimension

In addition to its well-known collections, Fine2Dine introduces EcoMade, a completely new segment within its range. This line combines an artisanal look with technological innovation. Thanks to emission-free production, Fine2Dine guarantees continuity in availability, quality, and consistency—while respecting craftsmanship and expertise.
