

EDITO Paris Winter 2026 New Collection

For Winter 2026, EDITO Paris presents a collection conceived as a dialogue between graphic lines and timeless textures. This season is marked by an exclusive collaboration with designer Samuel Accoceberry, who created Canopy, a sculptural rug available in two colorways. Inspired by nature, this organic composition joins the Signature Collection and embodies EDITO's identity as a bridge between art, design, and textile craftsmanship.

Alongside this collaboration, the EDITO studio expands its catalogue with new original creations. Papillon evokes the lightness of movement, Coquillage unfolds lines inspired by the marine world, while Cadenas plays with the rigor of interlocking forms. Éclosion expresses a floral and organic energy, and Piano, designed for corridors and long spaces, adapts to interiors thanks to its made-to-measure format.

Finally, two bestsellers are introduced in new color variations: the timelessly graphic DOTT rug by Claire Buet, and the DUNE rug by Charles Kalpakian, whose desert-inspired curves are dressed this season in copper and burgundy tones.
