PRESS KIT FALL WINTER

edito

Fall-winter is returning. It settles in, slowly. The light fades without disappearing; it transforms, becoming lower, more golden, more dense. The air changes, sounds grow muffled, movements become measured. It is in this almost imperceptible transition that the collection takes root. This season, we've chosen depth. No exuberance, but a controlled intensity. Mineral hues, earthy browns, burnt ochres, shades of clay and smoked wood. Colors that seek not to make a splash, but to ground the space. The home becomes a place where one slows down without compromising on quality. Nothing is superfluous; nothing is ostentatious. Balance arises from the precision of the materials, the subtle tension in the details, and the harmony between texture and light. Conceived as a natural continuity, this collection exudes a calm presence. Each piece finds its place without imposing itself; each element contributes to a lasting harmony. At its core, it speaks of timelessness—of what remains when all else settles down—of that discreet beauty that does not demand attention but asserts itself through its coherence, its materials, and its authenticity.
