The Fascination of Nature
Vase Sculpture ‘Metamorphosis Testudinaria’

Inspiration from nature: Vase „Metamorphose Testudinaria“ © Klatt Objects

Klatt Objects showcases just how fascinating nature itself can be with this intricately crafted vase. This unique collector’s item is dedicated to Testudinaria, a fascinating caudex plant native to the warm climates of North and Central America. Its defining feature is a deeply furrowed tuber measuring up to 50 cm in size, which is why the species is also known as the elephant’s foot or tortoise plant.

The ‘Metamorphose Testudinaria’ vase by Klatt Objects measures 45 cm in length and 30 cm in width. It is crafted from the finest, traditionally produced bone china. Twelve openings of varying sizes, carefully balanced, invite you to create individual floral arrangements to suit the season and your personal taste. The intricately crafted base, which continues the pattern seamlessly, ensures a particularly secure hold.

The distinctive design language makes this sculptural vase an iconic eye-catcher both in private homes and in commercial interiors.
