ZOOH TO LAUNCH MODERN MENAGERIE AT MAISON&OBJET PARIS

An animal-inspired collection of expressive tableware and home textiles, designed in Asturias for colourful, informal living

ASTURIAS, SPAIN — September 2026 — Spanish design brand ZOOH will launch Modern Menagerie, a new collection of animal-inspired tableware and home textiles, at Maison&Objet Paris from 10–14 September 2026.

Created in collaboration with Asturias-based artist Anja Riebensahm of dasBrooklyn, the collection takes original artwork beyond the walls and into everyday life. Hand-painted songbirds, foxes, folk-art cats, dragonflies, sardines, guinea fowl and monkeys appear across tablecloths, napkins, tea towels, cushion covers, placemats and coasters.

Modern Menagerie brings together the decorative tradition of the northern European table with the warmth, colour and relaxed character of life in Spain. Designed for contemporary homes, the collection proposes an informal approach to entertaining: tables that feel expressive, welcoming and beautiful without being formal or overly styled.

Living in Asturias has also changed the way the ZOOH team thinks about the table. While much of today's conversation around food focuses on what we eat, life in Spain has reminded them that how we eat matters too: setting the table, sitting down together and making time to share an ordinary meal with family or friends. Modern Menagerie grew from the belief that these everyday rituals deserve as much attention as special occasions.

"Living in Asturias has taught us that the pleasure of a meal is not only about what we eat, but how we eat," says ZOOH founder Alicia Wood. "Setting the table and sitting down with family or friends turns an ordinary part of the day into a moment of connection. We want our designs to make that ritual feel joyful, personal and easy—not formal or intimidating."

ZOOH

The collection brings together the work of artists and designers Anja Riebensahm, Henry Iles and Holly Alp. Each range begins with an original animal artwork, which is then developed into practical objects for the home.

Modern Menagerie has been created with independent retailers, gift shops and design-led concept stores in mind. Its combination of distinctive artwork, practical materials and accessible pricing offers retailers an original alternative to mass-produced homeware.

The collection will be available for wholesale orders at Maison&Objet and directly from ZOOH, with retail availability beginning in late September 2026.
