1 Story & DNA

Hervet Manufacturier designs and produces furniture and decorative objects in limited quantities.

Each piece carries a distinctive identity, shaped by the visionary aesthetics of the previous century and a clear belief in the future.

"Hervet Manufacturier, an inspiring first class stationary travel experience"

La Maison creates objects suspended between heritage and anticipation.

Rooted in French craftsmanship, Hervet works with noble materials selected for their character and durability.

Each object is developed through a meticulous process that allows for only small-scale production:

- Numbered limited editions
- Custom commissions

Hervet Manufacturier is driven by three forces: Forward-looking design, traditional know-how, and material integrity

A certain idea of the Future.

After having developed
“The Art of Space” in ranges of quality furniture imbued with its retro-futuristic style, Hervet Manufacturier chooses to break spatiotemporal silences and add a fourth dimension: sound.
In this perfect equation between innovation and tradition, between design and craftsmanship that characterizes the genesis of their work, Nicolas and Cédric have integrated the appetency for music and aesthetics that they have shared since childhood.

This new range called, “Bellame”, was created from a shared and strong passion that unites them, inspired by vintage speakers and recording studios from the 70s and 80s. Bellame resonates with the Hervet generations, their childhood dreams and their passions. It is also a heritage, a philosophy of excellence, the mastery of ancestral woodworking techniques, the skills in handling instruments and meticulously selecting species of precious woods and other materials to create a noble, enveloping sound that defies trends and the wear and tear of time.

True “Madeleine de Proust” by the emotional charge it contains, each collection is launched in honor of a music band that marked the life of the Hervet cousins.
Unsurprisingly, Hervet dedicated his first “Hommage” loudspeakers collection to his pioneer friends of the “French Touch”, Daft Punk.

2 Nicolas & Cédric

For those who work with wood, each tree carries meaning. In the Hervet family tree, it is no different.

Hervet Manufacturier embodies knowledge passed down through over several centuries.

Tracing the family's roots in Normandy reveals cabinet-makers, carpenters, marquetry craftsmen, chest builder and coopers.

From generation to generation, the Hervet name became both signature and responsibility, preserving mastery of wood-working and a deep respect for the material.

"A legacy refined over time, driven by excellence."

Mr. & Ms. Albert Hervet
Ébéniste (1880)

From a young age, the two cousins, Nicolas Hervet (1976) and Cédric Hervet (1974), were inseparable and already creating their own furniture. As they matured, they chose different paths, each asserting his individuality within the Hervet lineage.

Nicolas remained rooted in his craft, refining his woodworking expertise and earning recognition within the industry.

After graduating from École Boulle in Paris, Cédric immersed himself in the world of music, developing his creative language as Creative Director for Daft Punk.

In 2008, Nicolas designed an exceptional desk for his cousin. It became the founding piece, the true starting point of the adventure.

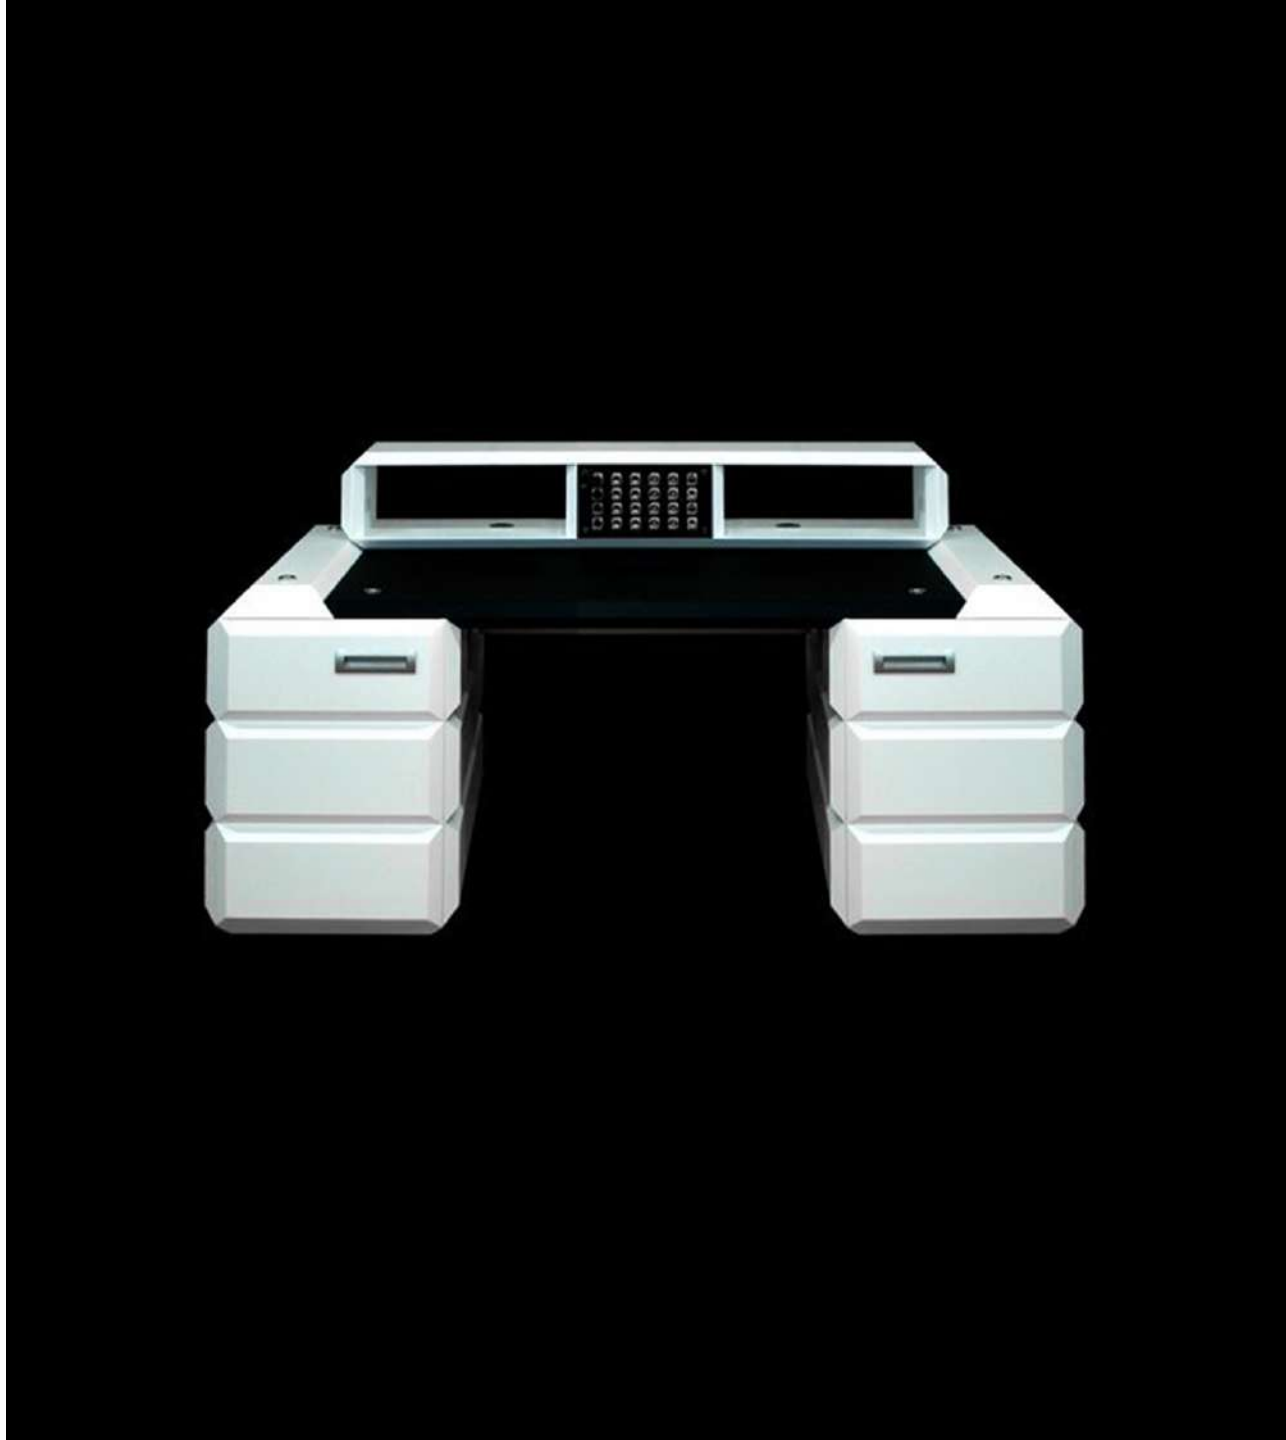

At the time, Cédric required a piece that was both ergonomic and refined for his post-production work, particularly in collaboration with Daft Punk.

The desk embodied their complementary strengths. It was the catalyst. From this singular piece emerged Hervet Manufacturier.

Under this signature, the two cousins design furniture with meticulous respect for the traditional disciplines of carpentry, cabinetmaking, marquetry and upholstery.

Working with restraint and intention, they use the finest materials nature offers: rare woods, exceptional leathers and noble metals.

COLLABORATIONS

4 Savoir-Faire

Generations of woodworking expertise and a deeply rooted philosophy of craftsmanship shape Hervet Manufacturier.

The brand expresses itself through the work of the eye and the hand, distinguished by its mastery of traditional disciplines.

Cabinetmaking lies at the heart of its heritage, a technique inherited and refined across several generations in pursuit of excellence. This maturity of this craft now allows the creation of an exceptional universe.

Wood is its backbone. Hervet Manufacturier enriches it by combining rare species with other noble materials, brought to life by a team of skilled artisans, each devoted to their material of choice.

5 Iconic Pieces

6 Showroom

Between Place Vendôme
and the Opéra, on a quiet,
almost discreet street,
the Hervet Manufacturier gallery occupies the ground floor of a typical Parisian building at 8 rue Volney.

The space is square and intimate, carefully composed to frame desks, tables, chairs and limited editions.

In this cosy environment,
each work finds its balance.
At its core, everything returns to wood and the mastery of fine cabinetmaking. A striking central board displays chisels, jointers and shoulder planes.

Together, they recall the precision of the hand and the generations of Hervet cabinetmakers who once held them.

7 Certifications

Hervet Manufacturier was awarded the “Entreprise du Patrimoine Vivant“ [Living Heritage Company]
label in 2023.

This distinction, granted by the French government following a rigorous assessment process, recognises manufacturing excellence and rare expertise.

It is reserved for companies that demonstrate mastery of advanced, renowned or traditional know-how, often rooted in a specific region.

The label highlights the high added value of products made in France.
