PARIS DESIGN WEEK
10TH — 19TH SEPTEMBER 2026

CURATED ROOM

CONTEMPORARY CERAMICS AND COLLECTIBLE DESIGN FURNITURE

Ebisu Armchair, Charlotte Biltgen
Piedestal Side Table, Clément Brazille

On the occasion of Paris Design Week, interior designer Charlotte Biltgen opens her showroom to host the second edition of Curated Room.

Imagined by Anne-Sophie Latil,
this exhibition is dedicated to contemporary ceramics
and co-curated by Charlotte Biltgen, who pairs the works with pieces from her limited-edition furniture collection.

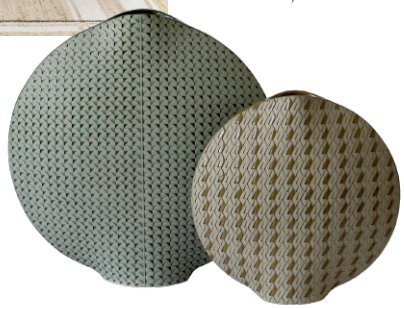

Following a first edition presented in September 2025 in the studio of artist Daniela Busarello, Curated Room continues to foster a dialogue between contemporary design and fine craftsmanship through a variety of forms of expression.

The project is rooted in a shared conviction held by Anne-Sophie Latil and Charlotte Biltgen: objects never exist in isolation. They reveal themselves through their relationship with space, materials, volumes, and uses.

Works by around ten ceramic artists — including Maxence de Bagneux, Nadège Mouyssinat, Clément Brazille, Hélène Morbu, and Cécile Lisbonis — are staged within a lived-in setting rather than an anonymous exhibition space, creating a resonance with Charlotte Biltgen's own creations, including tables, seating, and lighting pieces.

These formal and aesthetic dialogues offer multiple ways of bringing interiors to life, extending beyond the intrinsic beauty of the objects themselves.

Vase in xxxx, Hélène Morbu
xxxx

Curated Room: an intimate format designed for collectors

Created by Anne-Sophie Latil and Marie Thomazo, Curated Room is a gathering dedicated to collectors, interior designers, and decorators. Together, they shine a light on a generation of creatives who share the same standards: a commitment to craftsmanship, slow-making processes, and exceptional fabrication.

At a time when collectors are showing growing interest in the intersection of art and design, Curated Room offers a sensitive interpretation of the contemporary object within a setting that is both immersive and intimate.

Anne-Sophie Latil, Charlotte Biltgen ©xxxx

Press Contact : APR | Nahid KHELFA | nahid@alexandrapr.com | +33 1 47 58 08 03